Dear Friend, In this modern world of mass advertising and constant hard sell, Im not surprised many consumers feel jaded. Theyve been smacked left, right and center by advertisers and marketers who desperately try to shove their products down their throats. And many consumers have over the years turned a blind eye and a deaf ear to all the marketing and advertising messages that swirl around them. Fortunately for the marketer, one effective way of getting the message across has been around for centuries and that is marketing by trust, or in modern terms, viral marketing. In the past, people who wanted to eat something delicious or wanted to purchase a solid, quality piece of equipment would have gone to visit a particular business based on the recommendations of friends, family, or others in general. And guess what this form of spreading a message virally still applies in todays context! The truth of the matter is, many people out there are jaded, frustrated and unhappy with the conventional ways of being

Imagine having a product that heaps of people will be more than happy to tell their friends about, who will spread the message to their friends and then spread the message further on. Its like having a team of non committed sales men who spread the gospel of your product without paying their salary, medical benefits or spending on any other kind of expense! Of course, youll have to create a product that is free and interesting enough to get passed around for every one to continue forwarding it until the entire world knows about it...but how do you create such a product?
